OSHA Outreach Trainer

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration's (OSHA) Outreach Training Program was established to train workers in the basics of safety and health hazard recognition and prevention. OSHA authorizes qualified trainers, who complete the 4-day train-the-trainer courses, to conduct the 10-hour and 30-hour Safety and health hazard recognition and prevention courses.

See our list of training classes. Safety Enterprise, Inc. has experience presenting to small work groups in the field or classroom, to large groups in more formal settings.
